For literature-based Composition II and Introduction to Literature courses.

Literature: An Introduction to Reading and Writing, Compact Sixth Edition is founded on the principles of writing about literature. First, students learn how to engage deeply and critically with a broad selection of stories, poems, and plays. Second, the writing process is carefully and thoroughly integrated into the presentation of all literary genres, elements, and major writers throughout the entire text. Complete coverage of writing about each literary element, casebooks that allow for deeper exploration of important writers in each genre, and a total of 53 exemplary student essays and paragraphs with accompanying commentary ensure that students gain a thorough comprehension of the conventions, strategies, and organizational patterns to allow them to think critically about literature and to produce thoughtful and compelling essays, paragraphs, documented research papers, and examination responses.

Technology continues to play a major role with the success of "Literature" through the online study resource... the "Companion Website"; www.prenhall.com/roberts. This site is a comprehensive resource that is organized according to the chapters within the text and features a variety of learning and teaching modules. "Reference Modules" contain "Web Destinations" and "Net Search" options that provide the opportunity to expand upon information presented in the text. "Study Guide Modules" present a variety of exercises and features designed to help students with self-study for "every" fiction and drama selection and over half of the poetry. These modules include: Essay questions Multiple choices Built-in e-mail routing options that give students the ability to forward essay responses and computer-graded quizzes to their instructors "Communication Modules" include tools such as "Live Chat" and "Message Board" to facilitate online collaboration and communication. A "Writing about Literature" section offers students prompts for setting up an outline. A "Living Timeline" for literature gives students perspectives on historical, political, and cultural information. The "Companion Website"(TM) makes integrating the Internet into your course exciting and easy.

About Edgar V. Roberts Â Edgar V. Roberts, Emeritus Professor of English at Lehman College of The City University of New York, is a native of Minnesota. He graduated from the Minneapolis public schools in 1946, and received his Doctorate from the University of Minnesota in 1960. He taught English at Minnesota, the University of Maryland Overseas Division, Wayne State University, Hunter College, and Lehman College. From 1979 to 1988, He was Chair of the English Department of Lehman College. Â He served in the U.S. Army in 1946 and 1947, seeing duty in Arkansas, the Philippine Islands, and Colorado. He published articles about the plays of Henry Fielding, the subject of his Ph.D. dissertation. In 1968 he published a scholarly edition of John Gay's The Beggar's Opera (1728), and in 1969 he published a similar edition of Fielding's The Grub-Street Opera (1731), both with the University of Nebraska Press. He first published Writing About Literature (then named Writing Themes About Literature) in 1964, with Prentice Hall. Since then, this book has undergoneÂ twelve separate revisions, for a total of thirteen editions. In 1986, with Henry E. Jacobs of the University of Alabama, he published the first edition of Literature: An Introduction to Reading and Writing. After Professor Jacobs's untimely death in the summer of 1986, Professor Roberts continued working on changes and revisions to keep this text up to date. The Ninth Edition was published early in 2009, with Pearson Longman. The Fourth Compact Edition of Literature: An Introduction to Reading and Writing was published in 2008. Professor Roberts is an enthusiastic devotee of symphonic music and choral singing, having sung in local church choirs for forty years. Recently he has sung (bass) with the New Choral Society of Scarsdale, New York (where he lives), singing in classic works by Handel, Beethoven, Bruckner, Bach, Orff, Britten, Brahms, and others. He is a fan of both the New York Mets and the New York Yankees. When the two teams play in inter-league games, he is uneasy because he dislikes seeing either team lose. He also likes both the Giants and the Jets. He has been an avid jogger ever since the early 1960s, and he enjoys watching national and international track meets. Professor Roberts encourages queries, comments, and suggestions from students who have been using any of the various books. Use the following email address: edgar.roberts@verizon.net. About Robert Zweig Robert Zweig is a tenured, full professor at Manhattan Community College of the City University of New York. He teaches courses in Literature and Writing and for many years was the Intensive Writing Coordinator for the college.

Rented for my son away at college. This is so much better than being forced into buying a book that you will not need after a semester.

Very patient seller, would definitely recommend!!!

Great read, was needed for a class.

Just got the book today, I purchased it as new, but looks used, bent corners and is sticky in the back?? I mean it's whatever I can still read it, but expected it in better condition considering I bought it NEW.

Perfect size

faily used. lots of highlighter and bent pages with a fair amount of scribbling. overall it does the job. worked perfectly for me and my class. the scribble or highlighter didn't affect my reading. good price

Provides so many ways to look at literature in the form of poems and short stories. You can learn a lot without the need to dedicate heavy hours to do so.

Just what my son needed for his classes. Book was in great shape. Thank you.
