Ming-Ju Sun has worked in fashion advertising as an illustrator, art director, and photographer. Her original illustrations for Garfinckel's department store, along with her original drawings from Dover's Fashions of the First Ladies Coloring Book, are archived at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History.

Very odd... some of the dresses in this book don't even look like dresses and many of the girls that are wearing them do not have legs... it just looks like an upper body with a drawing attached to it.... I don't like to be too hard on a coloring book.. but - I found many of the pictures in this book to be down right awkward and un-real looking.

Fun to color your own fashions

I love coloring Ming-Ju Sun's fashion design coloring books. Whether it be historical in nature or fantasy, such as this, her fashion designs are beautiful and a fun challenge to color. This is a set of all new designs and, to me, there is a distinct modern Asian flair to many of the drawings. The fantasy in these designs are in cut and "texture" of the intricacy of the fashion prints rather than in some other-worldly sense of fantasy. These are the dresses you might see as an experimental fashion on a runway or being worn by a known trend-setter. The designs are detailed and most have small and intricate details to color. These intricate areas are generally the detail within the clothing. I've found that sharp point pencils and ultra-fine point (or brush end) markers work well for these areas. Each fashion design is surrounded by some form of background (generally flowers) to give a more balanced look to the page. This is what I experienced when coloring in this book and testing my coloring medium on the paper. 31 beautiful and intricate fantasy fashion designs by Ming-Ju Sun Printed on one side of the page Paper is medium weight, white, lightly rough and perforated Glue bound but pages can be removed easily at perforations. Designs stop before the perforations. There is a framing line at the outer edges of each design for a more finished look. Some portions of the design extend slightly beyond the framing line for an almost 3D effect. The book opens fairly flat by creasing/breaking the spine. Alcohol and water based markers bleed through to some degree Gel pens and India ink pens leave shadows of color on the back of the page Coloring pencils work well with this paper. Both wax and oil based pencils lay down good color, layer (same and different colors) and blend well using a pencil style blending stick. Hard lead pencils leave dents on the back of the page. I remove pages or use a blotter page of card stock or several sheets of heavyweight paper to keep ink and dents from marring the pages below.

Ok, this coloring book is just downright awesome! Each page is one side only design as in all Creative Haven books. The paper is medium weight so I can venture colored pencils as well as gel pens. Markers will bleed through. The designs are beyond beautiful, well centered on the page, and tons of fun to color and bring to life. These are really well drawn, exquisitely beautiful, appealing on every level. If you love gorgeous, fashionable clothing to color in beautiful models, this one's for you!

This is a great coloring book, I love it. Will have a wonderful time coloring all the Fantasy Fashions. I love the Creative Haven Coloring Books. They are my favorite coloring books.

Not disappointed with this new fashion book by Min-Ju Sun. Love the design and graphics. I'm having a great time coloring it. I have been using the Colorit gel pens and I love it.

I don't see the fantasy element of this coloring book. It's a book featuring dresses made from floral design cloths. As for the dresses themselves very much a continuation of the illustrators are decorated fashion. The designs are beautiful, I was expecting something, and I most definitely did not get it.

The pictures are so gorgeous and I highly recommend them to help you relax and color! These books sure do make my stress lessen!
