

Ebook Directory
the best source of ebook

The book was found

The Book Of The Acts (New International Commentary On The New Testament)

Synopsis

"This series . . . undertaken to provide earnest students of the New Testament with an exposition that is thorough and abreast of modern scholarship and at the same time loyal to the Scriptures as the infallible Word of God." This statement reflects the underlying purpose of The New International Commentary on the New Testament. Begun in the late 1940s by an international team of New Testament scholars, the NICNT series has become recognized by pastors, students, and scholars alike as a critical yet orthodox commentary marked by solid biblical scholarship within the evangelical Protestant tradition. While based on a thorough study of the Greek text, the commentary introductions and expositions contain a minimum of Greek references. The NICNT authors evaluate significant textual problems and take into account the most important exegetical literature. More technical aspects such as grammatical, textual, and historical problems are dealt with in footnotes, special notes, and appendixes. Under the general editorship of three outstanding New Testament scholars—first Ned Stonehouse (Westminster Theological Seminary, Philadelphia), then F. F. Bruce (University of Manchester, England), and now Gordon D. Fee (Regent College, Vancouver, British Columbia)—the NICNT series has continued to develop over the years. In order to keep the commentary new and conversant with contemporary scholarship, the NICNT volumes have been and will be revised or replaced as necessary. The newer NICNT volumes in particular take into account the role of recent rhetorical and sociological inquiry in elucidating the meaning of the text, and they also exhibit concern for the theology and application of the text. As the NICNT series is ever brought up to date, it will continue to find ongoing usefulness as an established guide to the New Testament text.

Book Information

Series: New International Commentary on the New Testament

Hardcover: 565 pages

Publisher: Eerdmans; Revised ed. edition (June 30, 1988)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0802825052

ISBN-13: 978-0802825056

Product Dimensions: 6.5 x 1.4 x 9.5 inches

Shipping Weight: 2.2 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.6 out of 5 stars 42 customer reviews

Best Sellers Rank: #38,677 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #30 in Bible Books > Christian Books

& Bibles > Bible Study & Reference > Commentaries > New Testament #142 in The Bible > Christian Books & Bibles > Bible Study & Reference > New Testament #7238 in The Bible > Religion & Spirituality

Customer Reviews

(1910–1990) The Rylands Professor of Biblical Criticism and Exegesis at the University of Manchester, England. During his distinguished career he wrote numerous widely used commentaries and books and served as the general editor of the New International C

As a young missionary teaching in a Bible college in Nigeria, I discovered F. F. Bruce on Acts. I found it extremely valuable, but never owned a copy of my own until recently. I could not envision teaching the book of Acts without checking out what Bruce has to say on the text. If you are looking for THE foundational book on Acts, get F. F. Bruce.

Excellent commentary. Answers nearly every significant question that has arisen, while reading the Greek text. Of course it's dated in some regards, but that's easily taken into account.

This is an older version of this series, but Bruce is just so readable and clear that it has to make this the single Acts Commentary you may want on your shelf. Actually one of those rare commentaries you can just read through without being a greek scholar and just enjoy the comments as they come.

recommended by bestcommentaries.com

'The Book of the Acts, Revised' in 'The New International Commentary on the New Testament' series, written by F. F. (Frederick Fyvie) Bruce, is an excellent addition to this series, and a worthy follow-up to Joel Green's commentary on 'The Gospel of Luke' in the same series. I once made two mistaken statements about this series, commonly abbreviated as NICNT. The first is that the editors tend to commission relatively junior scholars to do their commentaries, often as revisions of their doctoral dissertations. The second is that the series uses the relatively old 'American Standard Version' translation of 1901. Both Professors Green and Bruce are distinctly senior, highly qualified commentators, both of whom contribute their own translations. As I always use the NRSV as a primary translation, I look forward to a commentator's own personal translation, based on a deep knowledge of the particular scripture. And, Professor Bruce has a deeper knowledge than most, as he finished a commentary on the Greek text of Acts before doing this commentary. The separate commentary on the Greek has a salutary effect on the current work, as it separates out all the tedious philological and text critical findings for those who are primarily interested in such things. That leaves only professor Bruce's commentary on the literary, historical, and theological matters we find in Luke's Acts. Acts does not have quite as many interpretational difficulties as Luke's Gospel. Therefore, some commentators' approach, such as the more recent work by Darrell Bock, tends to obscure the relatively cleaner text by discussing many different interpretations, including many from this volume. Like many of the commentators in 'The New Interpreter's Bible (NIB)', Bruce focuses on a clean and illuminating organization of the text, with excellent material for applying the text to modern church and pastoral questions. Unlike the NIB, Bruce has excellent references to Hebrew sources, primarily the Mishnah. In fact, it was Bruce's commentary which pushed me to finally get a copy of the Mishnah as an aid to understanding references to Jewish practice in both the Hebrew and Christian scriptures. It may not count for much in many reviewers' evaluations, but I also find the design of the NICNT volumes' typesetting to be superior to many other series, especially to the Word Biblical Commentary volumes. It does little good to have excellent material if aging eyes find it difficult to read it. Like Green's commentary, I would suggest Bruce's volume over many others, with the one caveat that it is at least ten (10) years older than several important new commentaries, such as the Anchor Bible contribution by Joseph Fitzmyer and at least five (5) years older than Luke Timothy Johnson's Sacra Pagina volume, and both are important and useful for the lay or pastoral user. So, I strongly recommend this volume, used together with Fitzmyer's volume or some other recent commentary. For those reviewers who do not find much new, I sympathize with their observation, but suggest that this is more evidence for the fact that this is a very good first (but not only) commentary on Acts for the pastoral or lay user.

Classic commentary on Acts. As a layman, I am finding it very helpful as I teach Acts. Dr. Bruce addresses questions raised by the text without more reliance on Greek grammar than I can handle. His approach to the theology is conservative, which I appreciate. I do not always find his references and comparison to Luke's gospel to be useful.

Not a very deep commentary. Very generic.

I've been using the NICNT series for several years and I would definitely recommend this particular volume on the Book of Acts to everyone.

Download to continue reading...

The Book of the Acts (New International Commentary on the New Testament) Acts (IVP New Testament Commentary) Acts (Baker Exegetical Commentary on the New Testament) Acts: A Theological Commentary on the Bible (Belief: a Theological Commentary on the Bible) 2015 International Existing Building Code Commentary (International Building Code Commentary) Jewish New Testament Commentary: A Companion Volume to the Jewish New Testament The JPS Commentary on the Haggadah: Historical Introduction, Translation, and Commentary (JPS Bible Commentary) Commentary on the New Testament Use of the Old Testament The Gospel of Matthew (The New International Commentary on the New Testament) The Epistle to the Romans (The New International Commentary on the New Testament) The Book of Genesis (New International Commentary on the Old Testament Series) 1-17 The Book of Judges (New International Commentary on the Old Testament) The Book of Genesis (New International Commentary on the Old Testament Series) 18-50 The Book of Revelation (The New International Greek Testament Commentary) Acts for Everyone, Part One: Chapters 1-12 (The New Testament for Everyone) The Restored New Testament: A New Translation with Commentary, Including the Gnostic Gospels Thomas, Mary, and Judas Be Dynamic (Acts 1-12): Experience the Power of God's People (The BE Series Commentary) Be Dynamic (Acts 1-12) (The BE Series Commentary) Exalting Jesus in Acts (Christ-Centered Exposition Commentary) 2012 International Fire Code Commentary (International Code Council Series)

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help