Lamontte M. Luker, Ph.D. is Professor of Hebrew Scriptures at Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, Columbia, South Carolina. Dr. Luker also serves as Faculty Associate in the Department of Religious Studies at the University of South Carolina and Adjunct Professor of Old Testament at the Jerusalem Center for Biblical Studies.

This is a small book and easily fits in a purse. That does mean that the font is on the small side. It has photos and maps and gives concise history and background of all the sites so it is good to take along on your tour. It does NOT contain any info about hotels, restaurants, etc.

For people touring Israel, or just wanting information about various Biblical sites, this is a very helpful resource. Because it is designed to be carried in a pocket or a day-bag, the print is rather small. The information in this little jewel is very accurate and highly informative.

This is a very good go to book full of all the info you need. He tells you in detail how to view the sights and where to go. The book is a good size for carrying in a purse or bag. This is a must have tool!!!

Useful information but organized in a rather odd way for me.

Item received quickly and as described

Used before trip. Great info but weak on locating specific places. Match the Bible stories with the places in the Bible.

I have traveled with Dr. Luker and will again. His guidebook is the fruit of many excursions and research over a career.

Extremely detailed book. Traveled to Israel with the book on a guided tour. Book was an excellent resource that allowed me to interact with the guide. The Kindle format allowed to have access even during night tours. The only issue was reading in bright sunlight.
