Between the two of them, Bill McRae and Judy Jewell have lives in and traveled around Oregon for more than 50 years. During this time, they've also strayed out of state to research and write Moon guides to Montana, Utah, and southern Utah's national parks (like Zion and Bryce). As they turned their attention to Moon Coastal Oregon, Bill admitted that he was up for a trip (or three) to Yachats. And Judy was eager to return to Brookings, where she'd worked for the Forest Service back in the 1980s. "I could go surging!" she realized. Bill had his own revelation: "I could forage for mussels, and get some really fresh tuna down at the docks." Those temptations, combined with the premise of hikes and blustery storms, make Oregon's coast irresistible. Bill has written for Frommer's, Lonely Planet, and Mobil Guides, and 1000 Places to See in the USA and Canada Before You Die. He has also edited books for National Geographic and provided content for websites like GORP and Expedia. Judy graduated from Reed College and worked at Portland's renowned Powell's Books for 14 years as a book buyer and manager, until she decided to leave to travel books. When she's not traveling around the West, she now works as a technical and scientific editor and a yoga teacher. Bill and Judy both live in Portland, Oregon.

Just perfect for planning the trip

I bought the updated version after owning one from several editions past. This book is great for covering all of the out-of-the-way places and how to get there. Compact, but thorough, it is my favorite over all of the tourism things that are out there.

The book took way longer to come than was advertised. However, once it came, it was in the exact stated shape.
